

This is the anticipated nonfiction book compiling an authors backstage observations of the flukes, foibles, fun and funk trailing creative process. These spontaneous exposures [spiced with tidbits on metaphysics, astrology, and philosophy] were originally shared in 27 ENDNOTES accompanying individual chapter installments of MYRTLES PENULTIMATE WALKABOUT when it was published in progress from April 2013 through November 2014. For more detail on this collection of a writers journalistic notes and the unusual novel which inspired them, see the book descriptions on Amazons product pages for MPW chapter installments and for the MPW complete novel. The MPW pair of books, with the complete storyline in one and the endnotes in the other, feature a shadowed tree at sunset on their book covers. The 27 individual chapter installments have covers featuring the stained-glass peacock window built into the Castle Marne in Denver Colorado.
